SBVC Accepts $35 Million in State Funds to Build Career Training Hub

San Bernardino Valley College welcomed Senator Connie Leyva and Assemblymember Eloise Gómez Reyes for a ceremonial presentation of a $35 million check towards the renovation of the Applied Technology building on campus. After championing the building's renovation as a state budget priority earlier this year, these elected officials celebrated the project with other dignitaries on the grounds that will house a new, 21st century training center for Inland Empire students. The $35 million in state matching funds have been approved to build this nearly 100,000-square-foot modern career training hub, where students will receive the necessary preparation to sharpen their skill sets to meet the needs of today's tech economy. Built in 1964, the current 78,000-square-foot technical facility is one of the oldest buildings on campus. With the $70 million in combined Measure CC and state funds, the new facility will be a huge boon for SBVC students, as it will allow them to receive instruction in a brand new facility with state-of-the-art equipment. Approved by 61% of voters last year, Measure CC will generate $470 million for upgrades to classrooms and job training facilities districtwide. The new Applied Technology Building is expected to begin construction in July 2021, with completion anticipated in 2023.

SBVC Foundation Inducts Newest 'Hall of Fame' Members

SBVC proudly ushered in its latest additions into the Alumni and Athletics Halls of Fame, all recognized for their prize-winning accomplishments and service to the community. SBVC's Inaugural MLK Dream Rally Honors the Inspiring Civil Rights Icon

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. continues to inspire San Bernardino Valley College students, who came out on Jan. 14 for the inaugural MLK Dream Rally. Organized by the Black Faculty Staff Association, the event celebrated King's achievements in the civil rights movement. "Dr. King is the embodiment of courage to stand up for what is right," Vice President of Student Services Scott Thayer told the crowd. "Fifty-six years after Dr. King gave his "I Have a Dream" speech, his words continue to resound within our hearts and minds." Several students read their own speeches, encouraging attendees to pursue their passions and stand up to current injustices. A banner dedicated to King and the 1963 March on Washington was unveiled during the event, and a new scholarship in honor of King was awarded. Attendees were invited to approach the giant megaphone near the Physical Sciences building to "Shout Your Dreams", with many students declaring they want to graduate and have a successful career, and several faculty shouting they want to continue to help their students achieve their goals.

Children had the chance to talk to their favorite players in a special meet-and-greet before watching the players in action.

Three Wolverines to Continue their Athletic Success at 4-Year Universities

Three Wolverines are headed to 4-year universities to continue their athletic prowess and academic pursuits. Women's cross country runner Kimberly Pena won the first-ever Inland Empire Athletic Conference individual championship, destroying the field en route to helping SBVC win the team championship. She earned a trip to the state championships, where she finished 14th, earning All-American honors in the process. Pena has signed to run for Sonoma State next fall. Women's soccer player Caitlyn Saucedo will continue her playing career next season at the University of Indianapolis. Saucedo was key performer both seasons at SBVC, where she was a two-time All-Conference selection, two-time All-Region and All-State selection by the CCC Soccer Coaches Association, and a two-time selection to the All-West Region by the United Soccer Coaches. Irene Carter played for SBVC's track and basketball teams, but it was on the volleyball court where the 5-foot-9 middle was the most imposing. And that imposing frame will be headed back east to continue her career in the fall at NCAA Division 2 Livingstone College in North Carolina. Carter tallied 169 kills in two seasons at SBVC, helping to lead a much improved attack during her sophomore year. Congratulations, Wolverines!

SBVC Makes Transition to Online Operations to Slow Global Pandemic

The halls of campus went silent as over 13,000 SBVC students and hundreds of faculty, classified professionals and administrators transitioned to fully online instruction and work in the wake of the global coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. This historic operational transition to slow its spread in the region is a first in the college's 94-year history: never before has so much instruction and work been performed outside of the campus's physical premises. Campus will be closed to the public from spring break until further notice, with very limited facilities remaining operational on campus for registered students only: the Library and Valley360 Resource Center. These limited facilities were deemed essential for continuation of physical operations due to the irreplaceable technological and food assistance they provide to SBVC students, many of whom are under-resourced and do not own home computers or technology that could enable them to successfully transition from in-person to online instruction. Although SBVC, like many other colleges across the state, is wading into uncharted waters during this radical transition, campus leaders believe it is imperative to do so in order to stay true to the college's mission, no matter how sudden and brief the deadline. "I know this is a huge task to undertake in just one week," said President Diana Z. Rodriguez, thanking employees for their willingness to make the changes necessary to help students continue on their educational pathways during a time of such uncertainty.

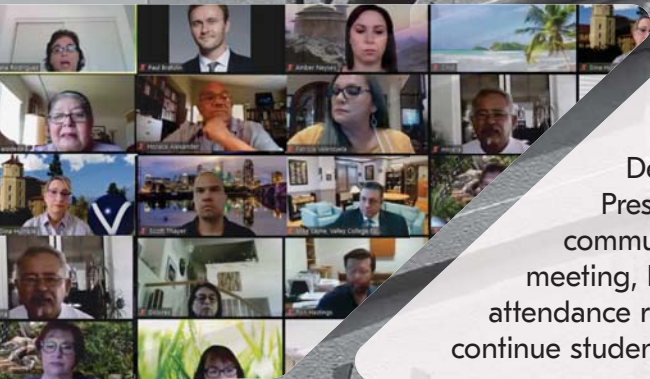

SBVC Moves Student Services and Assistive Technology Online

Students are able to access financial aid, admissions, tutoring, student health, disabled services, and other assistive technology and programs 100% online. The Counseling office adopts Cranium Café to meet with students virtually through a remote meeting platform. SBVC distributes hundreds of Chromebooks to students to assist with transition to online education, and ensure technological needs are met with the campus closure.

SBVC Library & Food Pantry Remain Open for Need-Based Services

The Valley 360 Resource Center remained open during the pandemic to distribute bags of food, supplies, and clothing to students in need. The campus pantry averages about 85 students a month for bags of food, and the option to receive clothing. The pantry is able to assist students with generous donations received from CAPSBC & local community partners.

SBVC President Gives Updates to Staff & Faculty Remotely

Despite the campus closure due to the COVID-19 pandemic, President Diana Z. Rodriguez was steadfast in maintaining effective communication with SBVC's staff and faculty. In her first-ever Zoom meeting, President Rodriguez spoke to over 150 campus members in virtual attendance regarding the status of Commencement, various strategies to continue student support, and the future of on-campus resources.

Student Life Launches Virtual Events and Health & Wellness Activities

The Office of Student Life hosted a new workshop series to bring health and happiness to the campus community. In its first-ever virtual Zumba session, staff and students could dance away their calories from the comfort of their homes. Free virtual yoga classes also premiered through Zoom as an outlet for students to de-stress as they approached finals week.

SBVC is Highest-funded College in $1.2 Million Project

SBVC has received a $188,239 grant from the California Energy Commission's Clean Transportation Training Project for alternative fuel projects, and will use the funds to buy equipment, expand curriculum, and provide professional development for faculty members. The California Energy Commission distributed a total of $1.2 million to seven community colleges, with SBVC receiving the largest award.

Rodriguez has been named a 2020 Centennial Trailblazer, and will be honored during Phi Mu Zeta's 4th annual Finer Womanhood Scholarship Brunch at the Arrowhead Country Club in San Bernardino this summer.

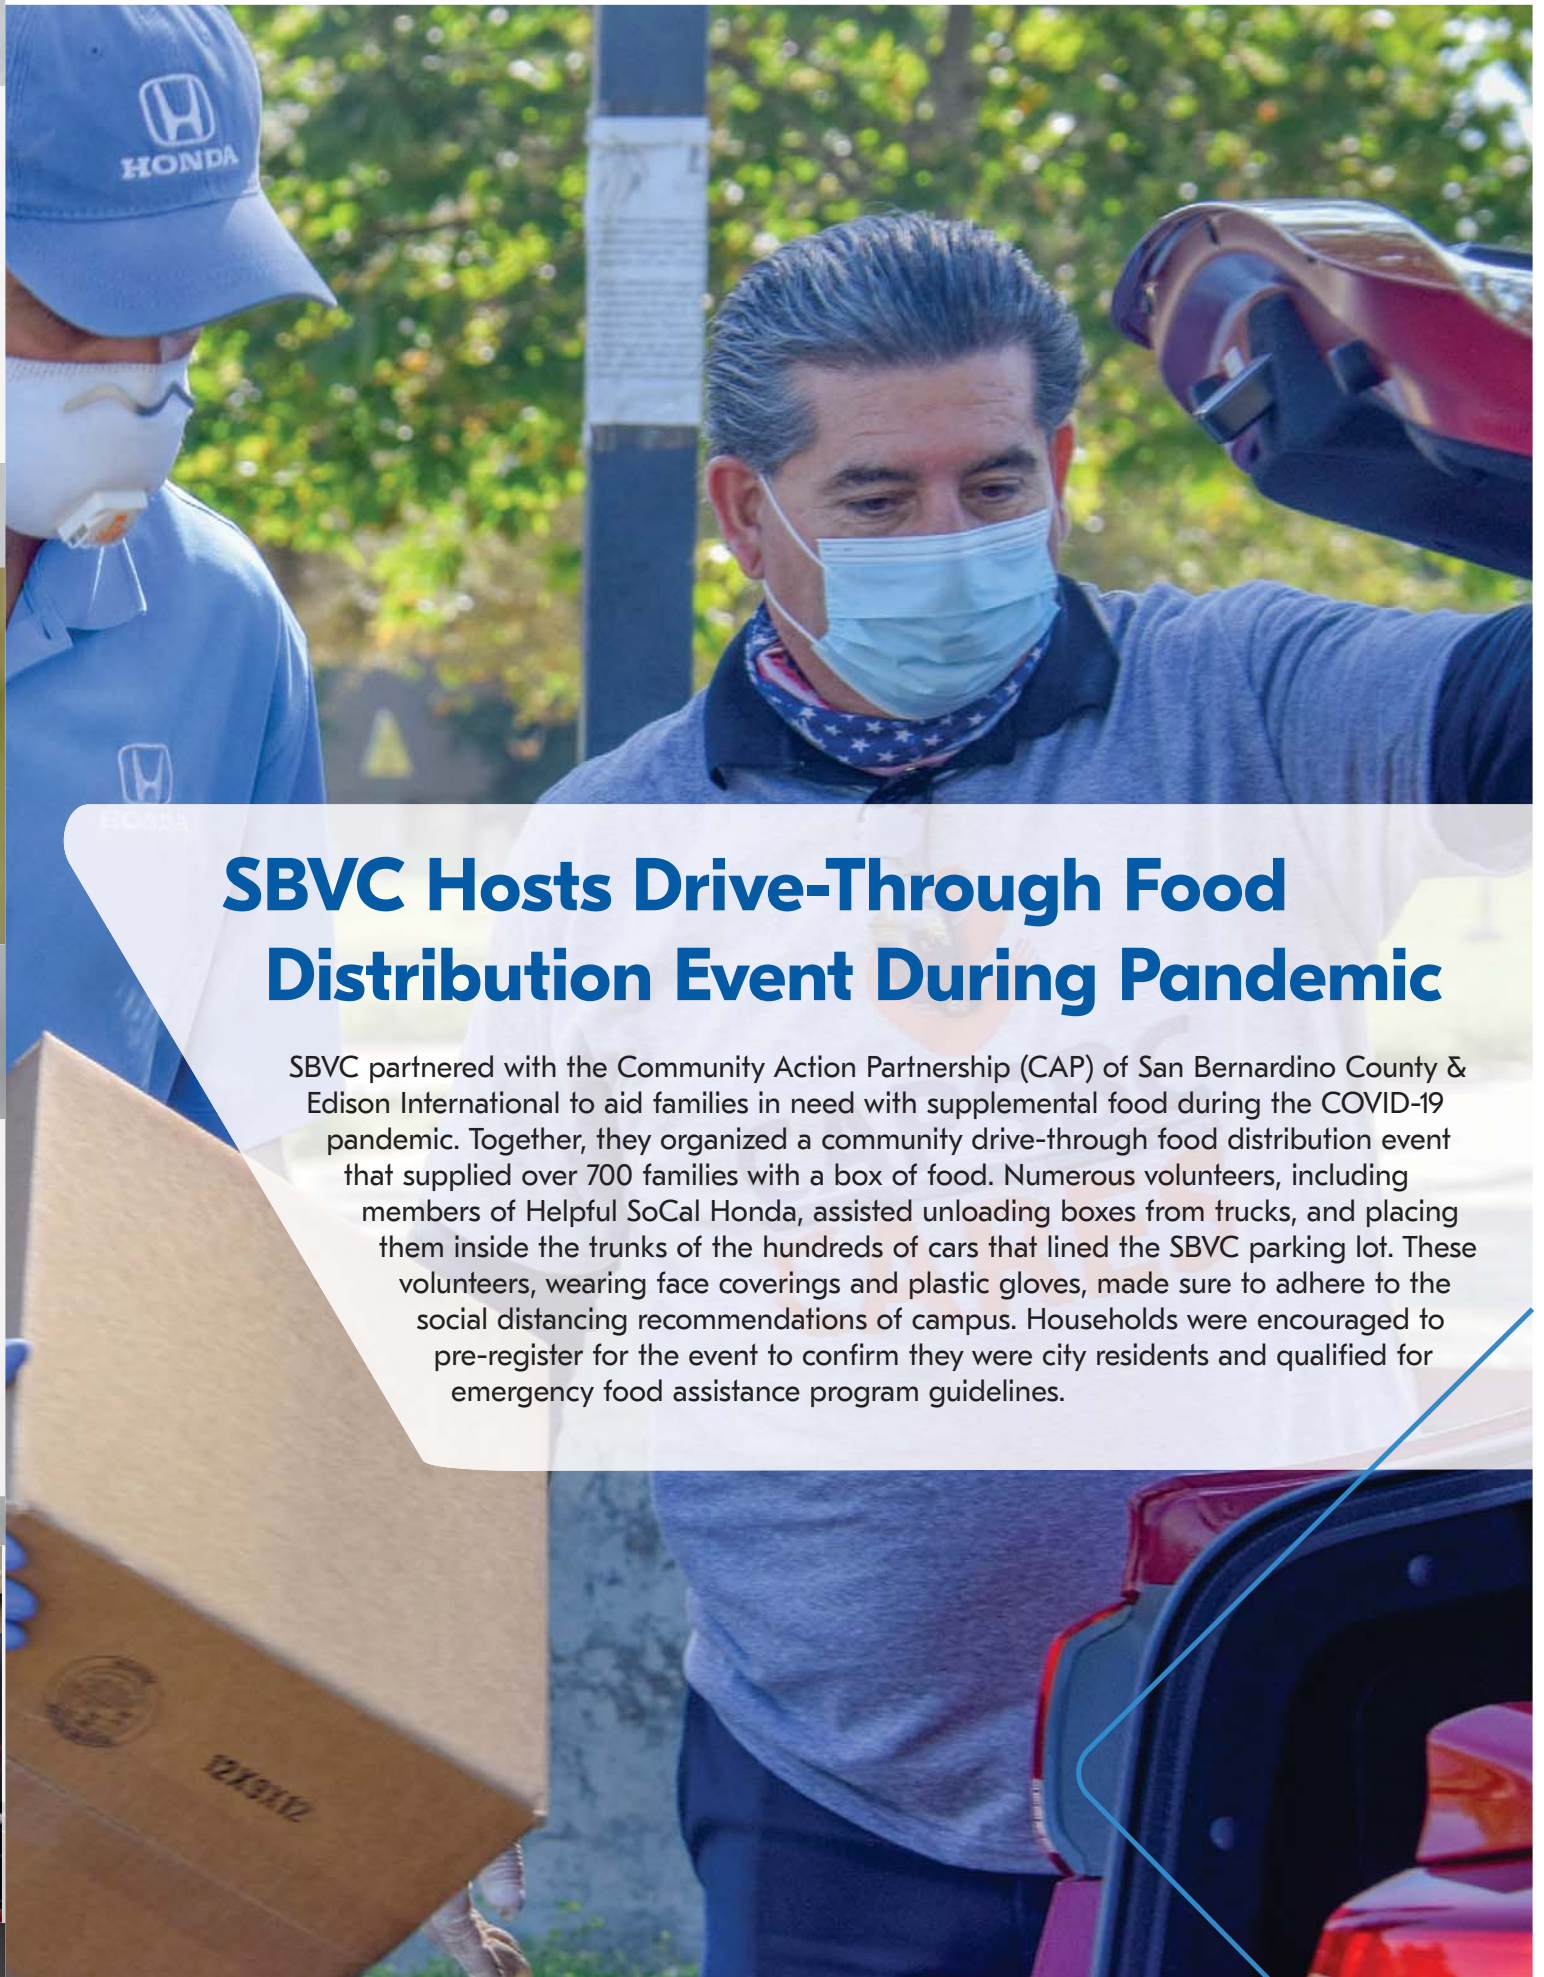

SBVC Responds to Civil Unrest with Trainings and Resolutions

In immediate response to the death of George Floyd and protests against police violence, SBVC worked to provide numerous workshops and modules that include trainings on unconscious bias, microaggressions, and how to connect with our students of color. SBVC's Academic Senate Committee completed an emergency resolution draft outlining its plan to infuse anti-racism/no hate education.

SBVC Student Wins Best Director at Inaugural WolverineCon Film Fest

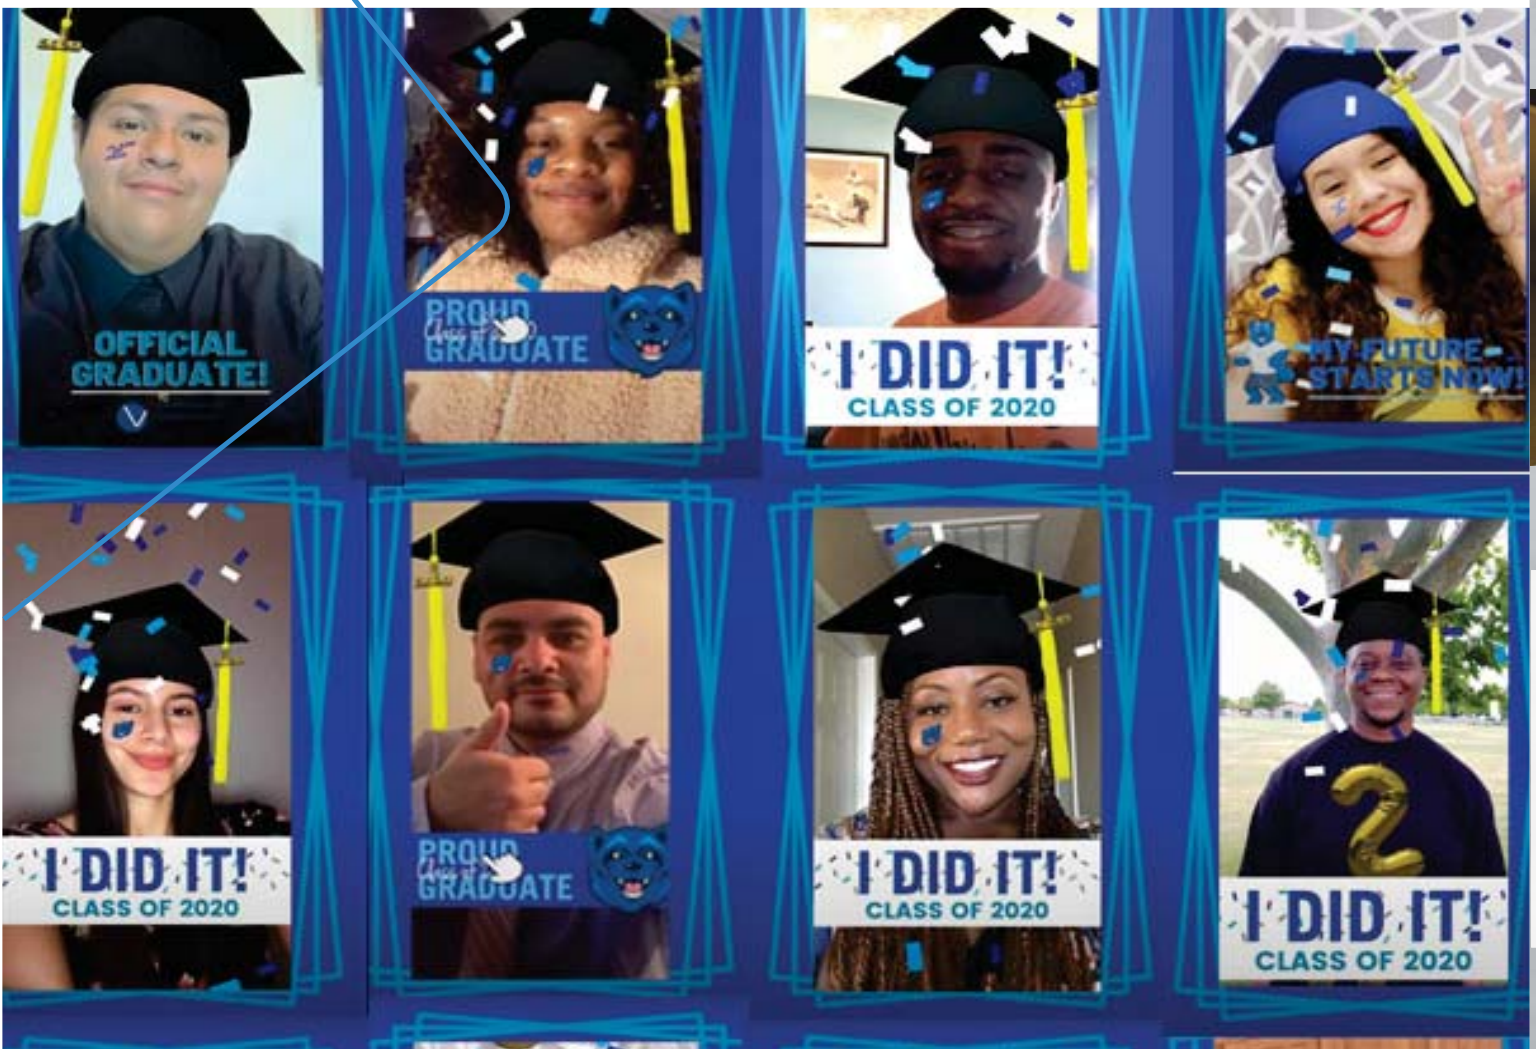

SBVC's inaugural WolverineCon, now part of campus' annual International Student Film Festival, successfully transitioned to an online platform and had more than 85 submissions from around the globe. SBVC student Jacob Hickman was also named Best Director for his Star Wars fan film "Powertrade." Through donations, sponsorships, and submission fees, this year's festival brought in $3,449.

SBVC Hosts Drive-Through Food Distribution Event During Pandemic

SBVC partnered with the Community Action Partnership (CAP) of San Bernardino County & Edison International to aid families in need with supplemental food during the COVID-19 pandemic. Together, they organized a community drive-through food distribution event that supplied over 700 families with a box of food. Numerous volunteers, including members of Helpful SoCal Honda, assisted unloading boxes from trucks, and placing them inside the trunks of the hundreds of cars that lined the SBVC parking lot. These volunteers, wearing face coverings and plastic gloves, made sure to adhere to the social distancing recommendations of campus. Households were encouraged to pre-register for the event to confirm they were city residents and qualified for emergency food assistance program guidelines.

Class of 2020 Graduates in First-Ever Virtual Commencement Ceremony

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, San Bernardino Valley College celebrated its graduating class of 2020 with a first-ever virtual commencement ceremony. The online livestream progressed exactly like SBVC's traditional in-person ceremony, except it could be viewed remotely on the campus's website, YouTube and Facebook. The event featured greetings from President Diana Z. Rodriguez, Chair of the SBCCD Board of Trustees Dr. Anne L. Viricel, and keynote speaker Dr. Judith Valles, San Bernardino's first Hispanic mayor and immediate past president of the San Bernardino Symphony Orchestra. After these congratulatory messages, graduates had their names read in alphabetical order alongside their virtual cards, which were designed and submitted by each graduate in advance. The major with the most graduates this year was again in Liberal Arts, which included 233 graduates emphasizing in Biological and Physical Science, and 302 emphasizing in Social and Behavioral Science. In total, 1787 students received 2,418 degrees and certificates, resulting in one of the largest graduating classes in the college's 93-year history. Congratulations, Wolverines!

EOPS Celebrates its 50-Year Anniversary at SBVC

For 50 years, Extended Opportunity Programs & Services (EOPS) has helped students facing social, economic, and language barriers earn their degrees and certificates, and transfer to four-year universities. Through EOPS, they become better tooled or prepared to enter their chosen career path and ultimately increase access to more livable wages.

SBVC Student Receives the Campus's First-Ever AA-T Degree in Spanish

Eloisa Contreras is using her Spanish language skills to help her community. In addition to taking several Spanish and Chicano history classes, Contreras was a supplemental instructor for the Spanish department and a member of Sigma Delta Mu. Contreras made SBVC history in March when she became the first student to receive an AA-T degree in Spanish.

Academic Senate Continues its Accreditation Process

Members of the SBVC Academic Senate have continued to prepare the campus for its evaluation by the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges (ACCJC), which has established a broad set of standards to ensure the quality of education provided by the institution. As part of the required periodic self-study, our campus must assess how well and to what degree we meet these accreditation standards.

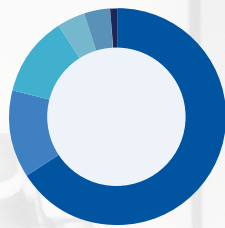

SBVC Foundation Scholars and Donors Recognized in Virtual Scholarship

The SSBVC Foundation's Scholarship Awards Ceremony was a virtual ceremony to commemorate the success of more than 250 student scholarship recipients, with 55 of those students receiving multiple scholarship awards. Over 135 donors contributed to a total of 426 scholarships, collectively exceeding $200,000.
